

China's herd of meandering elephants

A herd of wandering elephants whose travels are being followed by millions worldwide, may be heading home after a 500km trek

Part of 14-strong herd travelling north through Eshan in May

Two calves were born en route

Scientists baffled by behaviour which has included raiding shops and kitchens and getting drunk on fermented grain

Over $1 million of damage caused so far