

More people living in flood zones

Satellite imagery of 913 major flood events since 2000 shows that the percentage of the global population at risk from flooding has risen by almost a quarter – to between 255 and 290 million people

Orange circle: Increase in floods (since 2000)

Light blue circle: Little change

Pink circle: Increase predicted (by 2030)

Grey circle: Uncertain/insufficient data

