

Today in History

October 24, 1931

▲ The George Washington Bridge, connecting New York City and New Jersey, opened. The world's busiest motor vehicle bridge carries over 100m vehicles a year

1931: Chicago gangster Al Capone was sentenced to 11 years in jail and fined $80,000 for tax evasion

2002: Former tennis champion Boris Becker was given two years' probation by a Munich court for tax evasion

2011: Millions of Tunisians voted in their first ever free election

2016: Islamic State gunmen stormed a police training camp in the Pakistani city of Quetta, killing at least 61 unarmed cadets