

Europe battles new Covid surge

European countries are starting to impose new lockdowns as governments struggle to contain record coronavirus cases across the continent

