

China Eastern plane crash likely intentional

U.S. investigators believe someone in the cockpit deliberately crashed a China Eastern flight in March, in what was China's deadliest aviation disaster for 28 years, according to media reports

Mar 21: Boeing 737-800 crashes in mountains of southern Guangxi, killing all 123 passengers and nine crew

■ Data from one of plane's "black box" flight recorders suggests someone – possibly pilot, or intruder in cockpit – input orders to send plane into nosedive

Both black boxes sent to U.S. for analysis
