

Today in History

June 15, 1389

▲ The Battle of Kosovo, also known as the Battle of Blackbird's Field, was fought between Serbian forces and the invading army of the Ottoman Empire

1977: The first democratic elections in Spain for 41 years were won by Adolfo Suarez's Democratic Centre coalition

1992: Two German aid workers, the last western hostages held in Beirut, were freed after 1,127 days

2002: The accountancy firm Arthur Andersen was convicted of obstruction of justice in the Enron investigation

2007: The world's longest rail tunnel on land, the 34km Loetschberg Base Tunnel, opened in Switzerland