

Left-wing surge threatens Macron majority

Jean-Luc Mélenchon's left-wing alliance is running neck and neck with President Emmanuel Macron's centrist group ahead of France's second round legislative elections on Sunday

▶ Emmanuel Macron
Centrist Ensemble!
(Together!) set to remain largest bloc in French National Assembly, but Macron could lose majority and ability to push through economic reform agenda

▼ Jean-Luc Mélenchon
Success of leftist Nupes alliance in first round is unlikely to translate into majority in assembly, as moderate voters are expected to side with Macron in second round

FRENCH LEGISLATIVE ELECTION RESULTS

First round final results (percentage of votes cast)

PROJECTED SEATS IN NATIONAL ASSEMBLY

Nupes
160-210

289 seats needed for majority

