

Up to 50,000 evacuated in Sydney floods

Torrential rains battering Australia's east coast have forced thousands of people from their homes as rivers rose rapidly past danger levels.

The federal government has declared a national emergency

