

Police hunt suspects after Canada stabbings

Canadian police have launched a huge manhunt for two men suspected of stabbing at least 10 people to death in Saskatchewan

Two suspects identified by police as Damien Sanderson (left) and Myles Sanderson

Sep 4, 2022: Stabbings take place across 13 locations in remote indigenous community and nearby village. At least 15 other people injured in killing spree

CANADA'S WORST MASS KILLINGS

■ Apr 2020: Gunman posing as police officer kills at least 16 people in 12-hour rampage in province of Nova Scotia before being shot dead by police

■ Jan 2017: Man opens fire during evening prayers at Quebec City mosque, killing six worshippers

■ Dec 2014: Police in Edmonton, Alberta, say man shot and killed eight people, including his wife, before taking his own life

■ Mar 2005: Four Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) officers shot and killed while raiding house in Mayerthorpe, Alberta. Suspected shooter also dies in raid

■ Apr 1996: Man shoots and kills nine family members gathered for wedding ceremony in Vernon, British Columbia, before killing himself

■ Dec 1989: Gunman kills 14 female students at Ecole Polytechnique in Montreal before committing suicide