

Today in History

January 29, 2022

▲ Ashleigh Barty became the first Australian tennis player to win the Australian Open since 1978. She announced her shock retirement just two months later

1963: Negotiations on Britain's entry to the European Economic Community collapsed

1998: For the first time a top tobacco company executive acknowledged the health risk of tobacco products

2003: The world's largest media company, AOL Time Warner, posted a loss of $98.7bn for 2002

2003: Ukrainian president Leonid Kuchma was elected chairman of the Commonwealth of Independent States