

Today in History

February 6, 2018

▲ SpaceX successfully launched its Falcon Heavy rocket on its maiden flight, carrying founder Elon Musk's Tesla Roadster as a dummy payload

1993: Belgium become a federal state with separate regions of Wallonia, Flanders and Brussels

2013: The Halley VI Research Station, built on huge hydraulic skis, was unveiled in Antarctica

2022: Senegal won the Africa Cup of Nations, their first international trophy, after beating Egypt in Cameroon

2022: Elizabeth II became the first British monarch to mark a Platinum Jubilee, after 70 years of service