

Today in History

March 10, 1886

▲ Charles Cruft, manager of a dog biscuit firm, held his first dog show in London. Crufts is now the world's largest show of its kind, featuring 28,000 dogs each year

1977: The rings of Uranus were discovered when dips in the brightness of a star were seen before and after the body of the planet passed in front of it

1993: U.S. gynaecologist David Gunn was shot dead by an anti-abortion activist in Florida

2003: Deutsche Telekom announced losses of $27.1 billion,

2018: Hubert de Givenchy, designer of Audrey Hepburn's iconic "little black dress", died at age 91