

Europe's energy crisis

European countries have spent more than €800 billion to shield households and companies from soaring energy costs since late 2021, according to the think-tank Bruegel

State aid (€ billions, September 2021 to October 2022)

