

Today in History

August 3, 1958

▲ The atomic submarine USS Nautilus, commanded by William Anderson, became the first vessel to complete a submerged transit of the North Pole

1347: The French city of Calais surrendered to Edward III of England. It remained under English rule until 1558

1963: The Beatles played the Cavern Club in Liverpool for the last time

1998: Talks broke down between Iraq and UN weapons inspectors overseeing the destruction of Iraq's chemical and biological weapons

2020: Spain's former king, Juan Carlos I, went into voluntary exile following a series of scandals