

Today in History

August 10, 2003

▲ The first space wedding took place, via satellite downlink, with the groom aboard the International Space Station and the bride at NASA headquarters in Texas

1628: The Swedish warship Vasa sank on her maiden voyage. Raised in 1961, it is now a popular tourist attraction

1792: King Louis XVI of France was arrested after a mob stormed the Tuileries in Paris

1909: Leo Fender, pioneer of the electric guitar, was born in California

2013: Kirobo, a diminutive robot designed to support people isolated over long periods, was launched to the International Space Station