

Brazil's Indigenous population doubles

Brazil's most recent census shows that 1.69 million people identify as Indigenous, almost twice as many as previously acknowledged

1,693,535

896,917

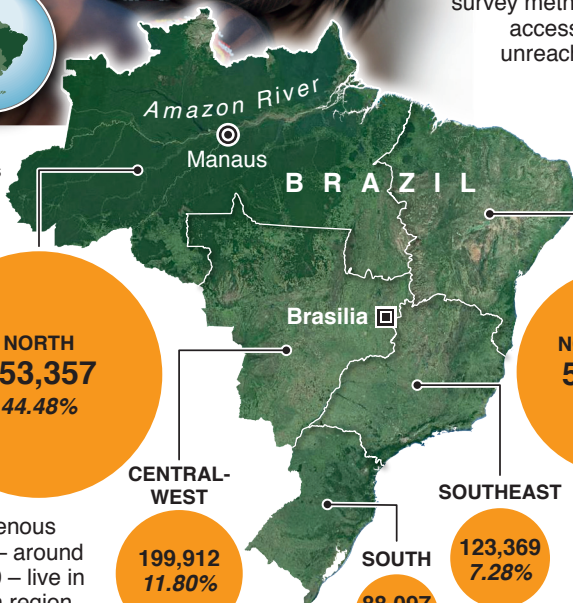

2010
census

2022
census

89% increase due to better survey methods, including access to previously unreachable villages, and greater willingness to identify as Indigenous

500km
310 miles

■ Half of Indigenous people – around 867,900 – live in Amazon region, with highest urban concentration in Manaus

Pictures: Getty Images, Google Earth

Sources: Reuters, Brazilian Institute of Geography and Statistics (IBGE)

© GRAPHIC NEWS