

Today in History

October 1, 1890

▲ The Yosemite National Park was created in California to protect the Yosemite Valley and surrounding mountains and forests from development

1953: British police used a television appeal for the first time in their hunt for a murder suspect

1998: A nationwide strike began in Russia amid a deepening economic crisis

2013: The controversial Affordable Care Act led to a 16-day government shutdown in the U.S. as lawmakers failed to agree a budget

2022: Soaring food and energy prices affected millions around the globe