

Indonesia volcano death toll rises

Rescuers have found more bodies of climbers caught by a surprise eruption of Mount Marapi on the Indonesian island of Sumatra

Dec 3, Mount Marapi
Eruption spews thick columns of ash as high as 3km. Nearby towns and villages blanketed by tonnes of volcanic debris

Climbers: More than 50 rescued following initial eruption. Death toll raised to 22. One climber still missing and presumed dead because of being very close to eruption site