

February breaks global heat record

The month of February 2024 was globally the warmest ever recorded, according to data from the EU's Copernicus programme, registering an average temperature 1.8°C higher than the pre-industrial average

DAILY GLOBAL SURFACE AIR TEMPERATURE ANOMALIES (°C)

