

Today in History

May 3, 2023

▲ Prolific striker Erling Haaland set a new Premier League record with his 35th goal of the season for Manchester City, surpassing a 30-year-old single season mark

1494: Christopher Columbus first sighted the island of Jamaica

1814: Louis XVIII acceded to the throne of France after 22 years of a republic under Napoleon Bonaparte

1874: French industrialist and perfume manufacturer Francois Coty was born. He also acquired several newspapers, including Le Figaro

2004: Air France merged with the Dutch airline KLM. It is currently the world's fifth-largest airline