

Today in History

May 15, 2004

▲ North London football team Arsenal became the first team in 115 years to complete a season in England's premier league without a single defeat

1918: The world's first airmail postal service began in the United States

1928: Australia's Flying Doctor service was launched

1930: The first ever air stewardess, a nurse called Ellen Church, cared for 11 passengers on a United Airlines flight. All flights soon carried attendants

1999: Russian president Boris Yeltsin survived an impeachment attempt by the Duma, the lower house of parliament