

Western weapons that could strike Russia

Calls are growing among Western nations to allow attacks on Russian territory using weapons they have supplied to Ukraine

France: President Emmanuel Macron (right) says Ukraine should be allowed to “neutralise” bases in Russia used to launch strikes on Ukrainian territory

Germany: Chancellor Olaf Scholz says German-supplied weapons could be used “within framework of international law”

UK: Foreign Secretary David Cameron says Ukraine has “right” to use British weapons to strike targets in Russia

U.S.: White House opposes Ukraine using U.S. arms to strike inside Russia, but Secretary of State Antony Blinken (above right) has hinted at change of strategy

