

Today in History

September 13, 1990

▲ A physician investigating the transmission of yellow fever was bitten by a mosquito and died of the disease, thus proving that the mosquito was the carrier

1994: North Korea allowed UN nuclear inspectors access to two atomic sites

1999: A second apartment block in Moscow was destroyed by a bomb

2004: A U.S. law banning the sale of 19 semi-automatic assault weapons expired and was not renewed by Congress

2004: President Vladimir Putin proposed major changes in Russia's political system to bolster defences against terrorism