

Toxic volcano gas reaches Europe

After several eruptions this year, Iceland's Reykjanes volcano saw another on August 22, spreading a plume of sulphur dioxide across northwestern Europe for several days

Dobson units (DU, measurement of amount of gas in vertical column through Earth's atmosphere)