

“Russian spy” whale “shot dead”

Animal rights activists claim a beluga whale, suspected of being a Russian spy and found dead off the Norwegian coast, was shot

Hvaldimir
in 2019

Apr 2019: Tame beluga – nicknamed Hvaldimir – first spotted in northern Norway, wearing harness with camera mount and label sourcing it to St Petersburg. Marine biologists remove harness

