

Europe battered by deadly floods

Heavy flooding caused by Storm Boris has left at least 15 people dead and forced evacuations across central and eastern Europe

■ Austria: Entire state of Lower Austria declared a disaster zone, with 1,100 homes evacuated. At least three people killed

■ Czech Rep: At least one person dead and over 12,000 evacuated. State of emergency declared in two northeastern regions

■ Germany: Authorities issuing flood warnings for rivers in Saxony as rising water levels affect southern and eastern regions

■ Hungary, Slovakia Budapest bracing for rising water levels from Danube River. State of emergency declared in Bratislava

■ Poland: At least five people dead after floodwaters sweep through southwest. 1,600 people evacuated from Klodzko Valley

■ Romania: At least six people dead in Galati county following unprecedented rain. 5,000 households affected