

Palestinian state recognition surges

A wave of countries recognising Palestinian statehood is piling pressure on Israel and putting key allies at odds with the Trump administration

Recognised Sep 21

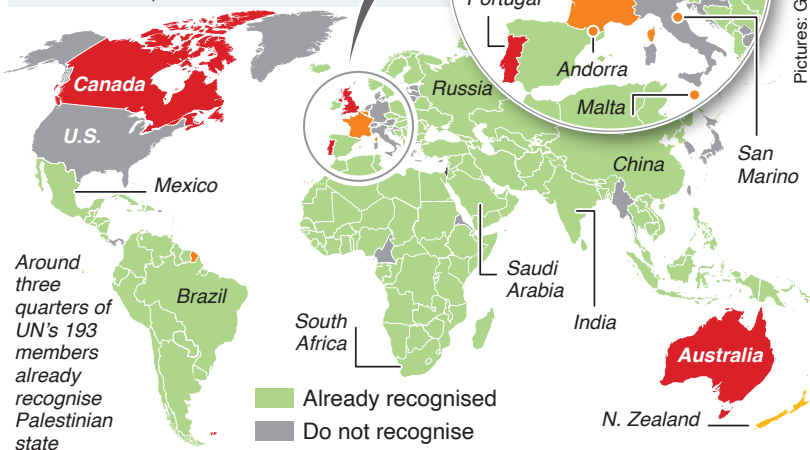

Britain, Canada, Australia, Portugal

Impending recognition

France, Belgium, Luxembourg, Malta, Andorra, San Marino

Considering

New Zealand, Liechtenstein

Pictures: Getty Images, Newscom

FRANCE

In July, President Emmanuel Macron called for countries to join France in announcing recognition of a Palestinian state

BRITAIN

PM Keir Starmer recognition comes 108 years after Britain backed establishment of a Jewish homeland in Palestine, in Balfour Declaration

CANADA

Prime Minister Mark Carney, says recognition is “part of international effort to preserve the possibility of a two-state solution”

AUSTRALIA

Prime Minister Anthony Albanese says he has received commitments from PA* that it will continue to recognise Israel’s right to exist