

President Trump claims Maduro captured

A state of emergency has been declared in Venezuela after U.S. President Trump announced a large scale strike following months of pressure and claims to have captured President Nicolás Maduro

