Fears grow over Trump's health

U.S. President Donald Trump, who turns 80 on June 14 and is the oldest person ever inaugurated, has been dogged by questions about his fitness for the job since taking office for a second term in 2025

Cognitive state: Trump appears to doze off at public events or Oval Office meetings. Congressman Jamie Raskin wrote to Trump's doctor expressing concern that president is "exhibiting signs consistent with dementia and cognitive decline"

Neck rash: Patch of irritated-looking skin on right side of neck marked by blotchy redness and scabbing. White House doctor says Trump is using common preventative skin treatment cream (for undisclosed issue)

Bruised hands: Often concealed by make-up – Trump's physician Sean Barbabella claims this is due to vigorous handshaking and side effect of using aspirin to thin his blood

Chronic venous insufficiency: Veins sustain damage and lose proper function, primarily impacting legs. Traits include red skin and ankle swelling (from blood pooling)

Sources: Reuters, MS NOW, AOL

Pictures: Getty Images

© GRAPHIC NEWS