Trump could appear on new $250 bill

The White House is pushing Congress to approve a $250 bill bearing President Trump's face, a move that would require changing federal law barring living people from appearing on U.S. currency

■ Bill mock-up presented by Treasury Secretary Scott Bessent (right) features Trump portrait seemingly based on his 2023 Fulton County Jail mugshot (left)

Trump's signature

Bessent says bill would mark nation's 250th anniversary of independence

AMERICA 250

LEGAL HURDLES

■ 1866 law bars living people from appearing on U.S. currency to avoid resemblance to monarchy. Trump allies in Congress want exception, but bill would still need House and Senate approval

■ Plan for new note could also violate federal law that specifies denominations that can be produced. That law does not include $250

Sources: U.S. Treasury, Reuters, BBC
Pictures: Newscom, Getty Images, Fulton County Sheriff's Office

© GRAPHIC NEWS