What Iran war peace deal could look like

Iran may be about to restart oil exports and gain access to hundreds of billions of dollars under an interim peace accord that could be be signed in Switzerland, and attended by U.S. Vice President JD Vance (left) and Iran's parliament speaker and chief negotiator Mohammad Bagher Ghalibaf (right)

MEMORANDUM OF UNDERSTANDING

Deal may see economic boost for Iran, in return for keeping Strait of Hormuz open and abandoning nuclear ambitions

Iran to be allowed to freely export its oil

Iran to end chokehold on strait

Both parties to reach final peace deal within 60 days*

Iran to access frozen assets worth $24bn-$100bn (estimate)

Iran to be granted $300bn for economic development

Central to deal is reopening of Strait of Hormuz

Iran to neutralise enriched uranium

Iran to never acquire nuclear weapons

U.S. to lift sanctions against Iran

U.S. to lift naval blockade

U.S. to withdraw forces from region

Israel to withdraw from occupied Lebanon

Possible stumbling block as Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu (left) has so far refused to end his country's war against Iran-backed Hezbollah

Sources: Bloomberg, Reuters *Extendable Pictures: Getty © GRAPHIC NEWS