Fuel shortages spread across Russia

Sustained Ukrainian air strikes on Russian energy infrastructure and supply routes have sparked a fuel crisis in Russia and areas of Ukraine it occupies

Moscow oil refinery on fire

Reported fuel shortages in Russian regions (as of Jun 23, 2026)

Russian-controlled Ukrainian territory

UKRAINE

Jun 22: Crisis spreads to Novosibirsk and Omsk – both regions introducing limits on fuel purchases

57 Russian regions affected

Moscow

RUSSIA

Omsk

Novosibirsk

KAZAKHSTAN

MONGOLIA

CHINA

Jun 20: Drone strike on Tyumen oil refinery could be Ukraine's furthest to date – distance of around 2,000km

Ukraine's long-range campaign

Russian oil infrastructure struck 68 times in first five months of 2026, including 55 successful strikes in last three months

Russia's refining capacity

About 700,000 barrels per day taken offline since start of 2026 – roughly double the disrupted capacity in same period of 2025

Sources: ISW, Reuters, Russia Matters Picture: X

© GRAPHIC NEWS