Sweden election hangs in the balance

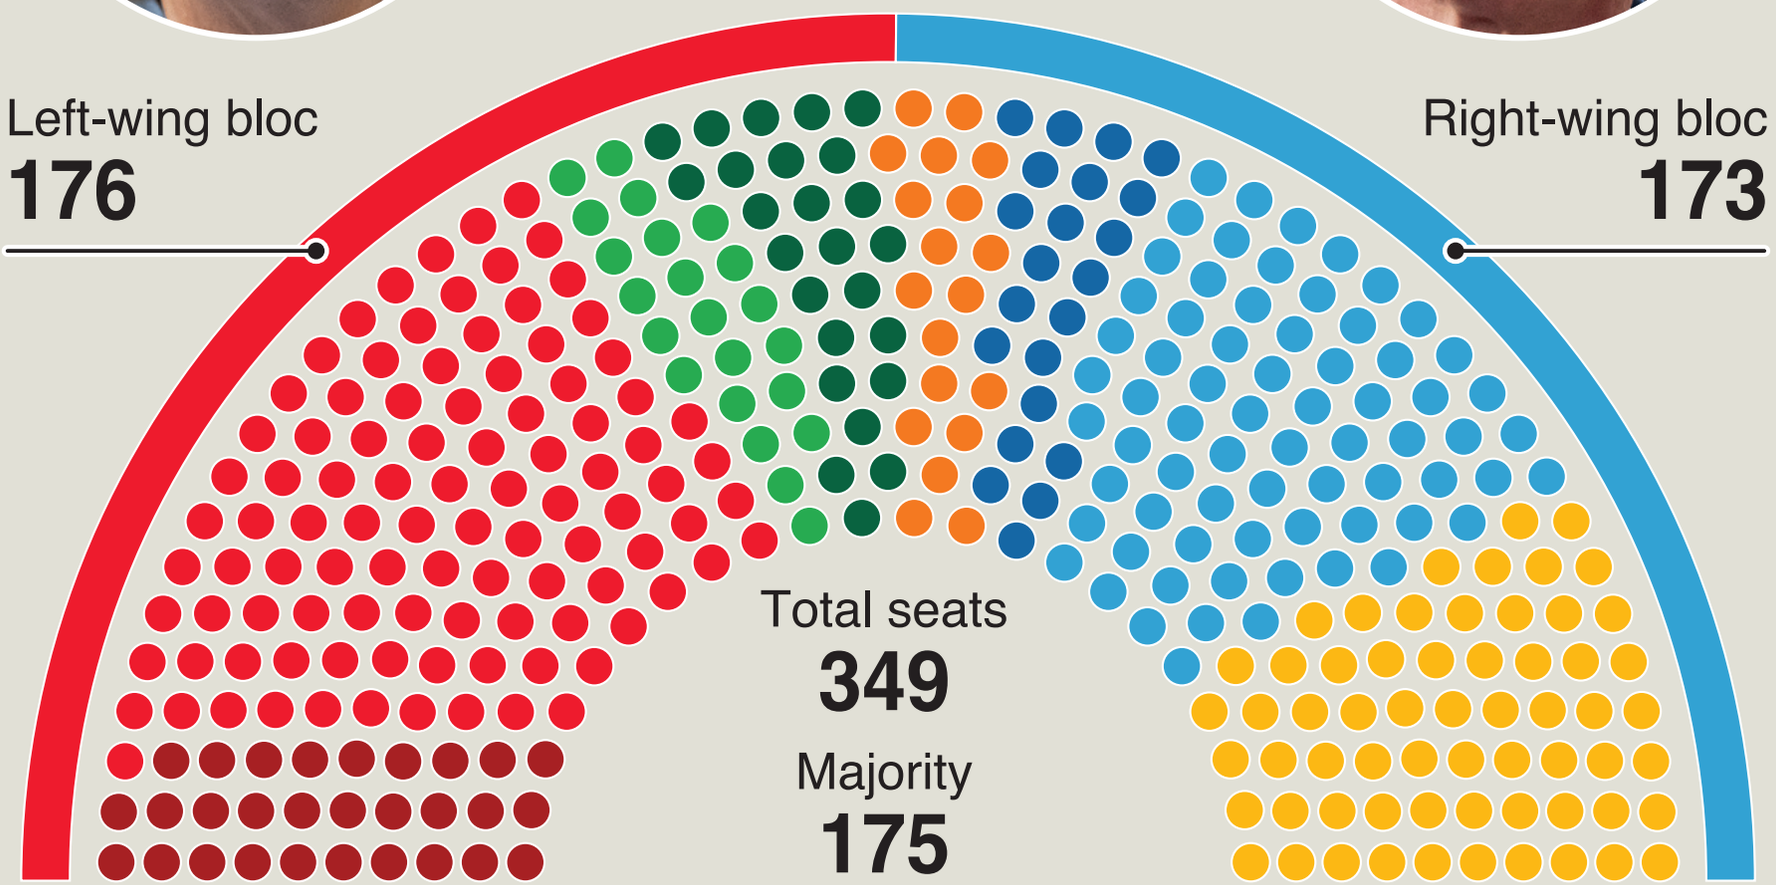

Sweden's general election remains too close to call, with preliminary results showing the opposition left-wing bloc marginally ahead as the vote count continues

Sep 14: Left-wing bloc led by Magdalena Andersson (left) holds three-seat advantage over rival four-party coalition of current conservative Prime Minister Ulf Kristersson (right)

SEATS IN PARLIAMENT
(94.7% of districts counted)

- Left Party: 29
- Social Democrats: 100
- Greens: 22
- Centre: 25
- Liberals: 19
- Christian Democrats: 22
- Moderate: 70
- Sweden Democrats: 62

Sources: BBC, The Guardian

Pictures: Getty Images

© GRAPHIC NEWS