

Global fuel prices

Fuel prices in Europe are the highest in the world, with drivers in Norway paying 1.53 euros/litre. Prices in California have hit a U.S. record of $3.251 a gallon – or 0.67 euros/litre – while drivers in oil-rich Venezuela can fill an entire tank for less than half a euro

